THAT CLERKSHIP.—The fight in California for the clerkship of the Assembly is becoming sulphuric in its heat. Scarcely an issue of the Sacramento Union appears without allusion to the pre-eminent qualifications of Owen of San Jose and sweeping denunciations of Boruck and his railroad friends. Boruck comes back in the last Spirit of the Times with a personal appeal to the members of the Legislature to stand by him. He claims that this unprecedented course "is impelled solely by the character of the contest which has been made against me; a contest which has resolved itself into an absolute persecution, and one which, in its malignity, has had no parallel, and which has been, as before stated in this, without the slightest cause, except the gratification of personal revenge."

THE DARIEN SHIP CANAL.—Commander Selfridge, who conducted the expedition to survey the route for a ship canal across the Isthmus of Darien, has arrived at Washington and submitted his report to Secretary Robeson. Commander Selfridge is very confident that a canal in course of time will be made, and says that it is no longer a question whether it can be done, but one of dollars and cents, and whether European governments will join in the enterprise. The matter will probably be called to the attention of Congress by the President in his annual message.

RAILROAD TO INYO.—The Santa Barbara Press is very sanguine that a railroad can be constructed from Santa Barbara to the mining regions of Kern and Inyo. A single tunnel, it is claimed, is all that is necessary, connecting two canyons leading up the divide. The rock at this point is said to be soft sandstone, and easily pierced. The Press is enthusiastic for a narrow gauge over the route at once. If they don't hurry up they may find one running into the Inyo country from this side of the mountains.

CONFIRMATION.—We notice, says the Walla Walla Statesman, that several of the lower country exchanges confirm the report that Ben Holladay is about to buy out the O. S. N. Company, and all of them agree in regarding the purchase as a fixed fact. When Ben owns the Columbia river, he can truly boast that he owns the Northwest Coast.

Not less than from 500 to 700 men, says D. Virgil Gates, M. D., in a letter to the Salt Lake Tribune, are lying on their oars at Pioche, waiting for something to turn up. He advises persons who contemplate going there this Winter, to pause before rushing headlong where they cannot well go further without going to the barren wastes of Arizona.

The Examiner wants to know where Senators Nye and Stewart get all their money to buy up Legislatures, and smash States generally. It intimates that it comes from the same source whence Connors drew his. Connors had to borrow money for an outfit when he first went to Washington and at the end of his term was a millionaire.

THE WIND STORM.—The severest gale of wind known to the oldest inhabitants, visited this place, (Unionville) Friday night, November 24. The only damage, in town, that we heard of, however, is a portion of the east wall of the Court-house bulged out some six or eight inches from its former position.—[Silver State.]

The Sentinel says Hon. P. C. Hyman late of White Pine, has gone to Pioche to reside.

THE ANNEXATION OF MEXICO.

If the report of the seizure of two American vessels at Magdalena Bay by the Mexican troops who dispossessed Col. Drake De Kay and his colonizers prove correct, it may lead to some trouble in that quarter. The pretext for the seizure of the schooners is not stated. De Kay probably had no legal right to continue the colonization scheme at that point after the failure of the company to meet its contract with the Mexican government; but he had some rights as a citizen of the United States, particularly while holding the office of U. S. Consul at Magdalena. The owners of the schooners, quietly engaged in taking in their cargoes of orchilla, had also some rights which the Mexican government (whoever that may consist of) was bound to respect.

This latest revolution in Mexico has demonstrated the weakness of the Juarez government, and will pretty effectually complete the conviction in the American mind that nothing is to be expected from Mexico or its rulers until that nationality is blotted out.

That the United States will finally absorb that country is a well-settled conviction. We have been disposed to regard it as an event somewhat distant—something which interests the next generation more than the present. It may not be as remote as many have imagined.

The United States has some interest in the maintenance of order and peace on the North American continent. When Maximilian was expelled from Mexico by the interference of the American government, the only security for a stable government for Mexico was broken down. This country having interfered in that case, to the injury of Mexican peace, and the security of citizens of every civilized country doing business in Mexico, it is now incumbent on the United States to see that Mexico behaves itself like a civilized nation. Events have shown that it is not likely to do this; that Mexico is drifting to the dogs as rapidly as ever. Having interfered once there is a good precedent for doing so a second time—and this time in such a manner as to squelch forever the bloodthirsty guerrillas who neither respect their own government, nor that of any other nation.

If within a few months or possibly weeks, Juarez does not crush out Diaz and his rebellious confederates, there will be little use for the United States to wait any longer in hopes of a peaceful, honorable future for Mexico. This country should interfere again, and in the name of international necessity, and in accordance with the spirit of the Monroe doctrine, either annex Mexico to the United States, or assume a protectorate over it. Such a movement would be a stroke of policy which would bring the present Administration into greater favor than any one act it could be connected with. If Grant would take possession of Mexico, he could rely on the Pacific vote, at least, to assist him to the succession.

STRUCK IT RICH.—Judge C. H. Bryan, well known throughout this coast as one of the ablest lawyers in the country, but whose habits of late years had rendered him unfit to be entrusted with any legal business, has struck it rich since he went to Oregon, by being employed in an important case with Holladay for a client. A heavy fee was the result, if he won the case, which he succeeded in doing, and now is the owner of one of the best farms in Polk county, Oregon, stocked with some of the finest thoroughbreds in that State. Instead of being dead, as was reported at one time he is still alive, and will doubtless drill his "Arizona guard" for many years to come.—[Elko Independent.]

J. F. Piatt was in town last Tuesday, making an official examination of certain mining property in Winemucca Mountain, for a San Francisco company. We understand the sale of the mine will depend greatly upon Piatt's report.—[Humboldt Register.]

THE ALDINE.

We alluded some weeks ago to the proposed changes to be made in this the handsomest periodical in America. We have received the January number which has been published in advance as a specimen of what American art can do, and to gratify the general curiosity awakened by the announcement of the prospectus some time ago. Typographically it is a curiosity; in excellence exceeding anything yet issued from the press. It is printed on dry paper. As an illustration of American art it is receiving the unbounded praise of artists of acknowledged ability. Among the magnificent illustrations "Maud Miller" on the first page is a happy instance of "the power of the pencil to reinforce the pen." "The Noonning" from Darley, "The Tropic Forest" by Granville Perkins, two views of "Venice," the "Festival" and the "Bridge of Sighs" are remarkable instances of artistic taste and skill. There is nothing flashy about this work, either in its unrivalled illustrations, poetry, or literature. We take pleasure in recommending to all who desire on their tables, what this claims to be, and is, a unique and original conception. Terms, $5 per year. James Sutton & Co., 23 Liberty street, New York.

SENATOR NYE'S LAST.—Judging from the spirit of the correspondent of the Reno Crescent, the best of feeling is not just now prevailing in the Republican party of Nevada. Here is one of his shots against Stewart and Nye:

Many of our citizens were overjoyed at reading the above heading in yesterday's Enterprise, but found themselves terribly disappointed on finding it to be only the last yarn told on this coast, and mighty state one at that. A friend in my bearing this morning, said "that the time had arrived when a man representing the Republican party in the national councils, should be possessed of some other qualifications than being able to talk of the bloody fields of Antietam and Gettysburg, and tell smutty yarns in bar-rooms to admiring loafers." I concur. What suited the party six years ago would be utterly distasteful to the majority now. A capable, honest, reliable gentleman is wanting for Senator next year to offset the one elected three years ago, and to represent truthfully and worthily the Republican party of the present time. Uncle James was a good man when we wanted a blower, and so was William Rufus; but as the State requires a gentleman now, neither of the above named can or will be elected.

LECTURE.

MRS. L. L. ADAMS OF LONDON. The Oriental and European traveler, will lecture at the METHODIST CHURCH, Tuesday Evening, December 5, '71. Subject—Three Years in the Holy Land and Egypt.

ELKO.

From the Independent of Dec. 2d we glean the following items:

Len Wines arrived from Salt Lake on Wednesday evening. He left on the cars yesterday to go below on a short visit.

Russ Carter has been lying dangerously ill at the Cosmopolitan Hotel for the past week. He is convalescent, however, and will be about again in a few days.

The heaviest snow storm witnessed in this section of country since its settlement by the whites, commenced about noon on Saturday last, continuing for 48 hours, covering the ground to the depth of about ten inches.

Fred. Wilson has his skating rink in running order, and for the past three days old and young ladies, gents and misses have been enjoying themselves much. Fred. has fitted up everything for the comfort of his patrons—a parlor, handsomely furnished with carpet, chairs and stove, for the ladies, and ditto (with hot Tom and Jerry instead of carpet) for the gents.

Dr. W. V. Hudson, well known to the citizens of Elko county, died recently at Mountain City, after a short illness. He was a candidate on the Republican ticket at the last election; was a prominent citizen of the county, and a more genial, wholesome gentleman could not be found in Nevada. His death, so sudden and unexpected, is mourned by hosts of friends and acquaintances. He was buried at Mountain City.

J. F. Dye, of Mountain City, whose settlement on the Pacific coast antedates old 49-ers 20 years, passed through Elko on Thursday last for San Francisco where he will spend a few weeks with his children, after which he contemplates a visit to Texas with a view of driving a band of cattle to Nevada. Mr. Dye is an old pioneer on this coast, and although aged 65 years, still has the vim and enterprise of one in the prime of life.
